

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In the document processor, a document memory which stores input document data; a selector which selects all or part of document data stored in the document memory; a characteristics
5 extractor which extracts data relating to characteristics of letter rows from all or part of the document data selected by the selector; a work processor which work-processes all or part of the document data based on the data relating to characteristics of letter rows extracted by the characteristics
10 extractor; and an output section which outputs all or part of the document data work-processed by the work processor are provided.